

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Joseph O'Ryan, a merchant and prominent Nationalist of Cashel, died last week.

The death rate in Dublin for the last week of October was twenty-six per 1,000.

The North Fermanagh election resulted: Archdale, Unionist, 2,568; Thompson, Independent, 2,091.

Dr. Thomas Henry, for many years Dispensing Medical Officer of Kilslingham district of Mallow Union, was found dead in bed at Kilkenny.

A draft was received from the Bank of Ireland, value £50, being the final instalment of a loan for the erection of laborers' cottages in the Rathmichael Division of the Union.

Mr. Gerald Shalvey, a well-known and respected citizen of Dublin, died suddenly last week at his residence, 3 High street, where he carried on the business of a curd-hair manufacturer and feather merchant. For several years he faithfully represented Merchants' quay ward in the corporation. In politics he was a sterling Farnellite, but he had won the friendship and esteem of men belonging to all parties.

The United Irish League is spreading over the western counties of Ireland, and several branches have been established in other countries. Nationalists are making efforts to have some branches founded in Monaghan. In a short period of time the whole country will have branches, and a hot time will be experienced by unreasonable landlords and rapacious land grabbers.

In Wexford recently the first step was taken for the erection of a fitting memorial to the gallant men of '98. A large and enthusiastic crowd was present, and patriotic addresses were delivered by Messrs. J. E. and W. H. Redmond, Sir T. Grattan Esmonde, M. P.; the Rev. Father Kavanagh, O. S. A., the historian of the '98 movement; the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and the Mayor of Wexford, etc. The commemoration was highly successful and at night the town was brilliantly illuminated.

An anniversary office and high mass were celebrated in the parish church, New Ross for the repose of the souls of the insurgents who fell at the battle of Ross (1798) fighting for faith and fatherland. There was a large attendance of the local clergy and the church was crowded with a devout congregation. Rev. Walter Rossiter, C. C., New Ross, was celebrant of the high mass; Rev. Thomas Hore, deacon; Rev. John Murphy, subdeacon; Rev. James Prandy, C. C., master of ceremonies.

At the meeting of the Limerick corporation Mr. John Kirellian proposed that in commemoration of the fight made in 1798 for civil and religious liberty, certain streets in the city should be named after Wolfe Tone and other Irish patriots. Mr. James Gaffney agreed that it was disgraceful that the principal streets should be named after English kings—the Georges and the Williams, but he thought the resolution too comprehensive. The proposition was not seconded and fell through.

One of the grand old men of Kildare county is the Baron de Robeck, who was one of the large and brilliant field at the opening meet of the hounds at Johnstown Inn. His age must be very great, but he still walks with a light step, "sits his horse" with the jaunty air of a juvenile and goes as straight as the best of them. Small of stature, but wiry and alert, the Baron wears his years well. At the Curragh, Ballabrigde, the county horse show and everywhere that he can serve sport or the great national industry he is a familiar figure and in the councils of the Royal Dublin Society his opinion carries the greatest weight.

Some months ago the machinemakers of the Dublin Typographical Society formulated new rules for the working of their branch of the printing trade. Evidently the rules were approved of by the general body of the trade, as copies were forwarded to all the employing printers with an intimation that the new rules were to come into force on November 1. Meanwhile the Master Printers' Association have taken the matter in hand and declined to adopt the machinemakers' rules, which in most of the larger offices would mean considerable additional expenditure. Of course the matter is now before the trade, and should the general body decide on enforcing the new rules some unpleasantness may be anticipated.

Among the accessions to the Irish bar is Mr. Pierce Charles De Lacy, one of the staunchest and ablest supporters of Parnell. Mr. Mahoney is the second surviving son of the late Mr. Pierce Mahoney, of Kilmorna, County Kerry. From 1881 to 1884 he was a Land Commissioner. In 1886 he successfully contested North Meath and sat for that constituency until 1892, when on the occasion of the general election he fought for the same seat against Mr. Davitt, who obtained a majority at the poll. A petition was brought and after a memorable trial, at which most startling evidence was given, Mr. Davitt was unseated. At the new election Mr. Mahoney contested the seat against Mr. James Gibney, who was returned.

At the quarterly meeting of the Limerick Town Council recently the Mayor (Alderman Cusack) presiding, Councillor Nelson (P) (for Councillor Lynch) moved that in future it should be optional with the members of the corporation to wear official robes of green instead of red, and that the Royal arms at present exhibited in front of the Town Hall and over the Mayor's office be removed and the city arms substituted therefor as a mark of respect to the memory of those who participated in the insurrection of 1798, the centenary of which is celebrated this present year. Mr. Nelson said he thought there was not a member who objected to a single part of the resolution, as it was quite optional with them what robes they wore. Mr. Hickey seconded the proposition. The resolution was defeated by 12 to 7 votes.

In the Court of Appeals, before the Lord Chancellor and Lord Justices Fitzgibbon, Walker and Holmes, a decision involving a caretaker's rights was rendered, affirming the decision of Queen's Bench, County Tyrone. Thomas Hegarty, an evicted tenant who had been put back on land in Donegal as caretaker, sued for trespass Thomas Dillon, who had purchased the land at Sheriff's sale. The court decided in favor of Hegarty, holding that "a person deemed to be put in possession as caretaker under the 7th section of the act of 1887, had, having regard in particular to the words of subsection 3 of section 7, such a special possession of the lands of which he was so put into possession as to entitle him to maintain an action for trespass against a wrongdoer."

Among the articles of value recovered by the divers from the wreck of the Maine was a fine gold watch with a massive chain and charm of the same metal. While somewhat dented the case was as bright as when new, though the interior movement was ruined by the salt water, in which it had lain for many days. The Navy Department began an inquiry to discover the owner of the watch. He was finally found to be C. O. White, rated as chief master-of-arms, whose name appeared on the death list of the Maine. A prosecution of the inquiry showed that White's mother was still living in Youghal, Ireland, in the person of Mrs. Minnie White, and after proper identification, Capt. Crownsfield, chief of the Navigation Bureau, had the watch sent to the mother of the dead sailor.

John A. Dickinson, Jr., of this city, dropped dead of heart disease in St. Louis, Wednesday. He was a son of John A. Dickinson, Sr., who was a leading furniture manufacturer. Of recent years he has been a traveling salesman.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Before the Sub-Commission Court, sitting in the Four Courts, Dublin, Mr. Davies Tuckey, B. L., presiding, the case was listed of Alymer, landlord; Daly, tenant. It was an application by a lessee to fix a rent on his holding, which is situated in the county Kildare.

Mr. J. J. Clancy, M. P. (instructed by Mr. Stephen J. Brown), appeared for the tenant, and Mr. Samuel, Q. C. (instructed by Mr. Grove White), appeared for the landlord. When the case was called Mr. Samuel applied that it be adjourned generally on the ground that the buildings on the holding had not been valued. It appeared that the valuation of the holding was £94, and pasture holdings of £100 and under being included by the Act of 1896, within the fair rent provisions of the Land Act of 1891, counsel intimated that it was his intention, if the valuation of the holding amounted to over £100, to raise the question whether the holding was a pasture holding or not. He contended that the Land Commission could not properly adjudicate upon the question until the valuation of the holding had been announced.

Mr. Clancy, for the tenant, said that it was the most daring application that he had ever heard made in that or in any other court. It was as if a plaintiff or a defendant in an ordinary action after the pleadings had been closed had discovered a vital defect in his case, and then applied for a postponement in order to enable him to wrap up his case. He said that if the application were acceded to it would be a violation of Magna Charta itself, because it would be delaying justice, and, he added, that in any case the landlord would not be benefited, because the valuation that should be taken into account would be that which existed at the passing of the Act of 1896. The Commission refused Mr. Samuel's application, and proceeded to hear the case.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Peter Cusick, Secretary of Division 6, has moved to his new home on Twentieth street, near Lytle.

The Hibernians of Rochester last week closed a successful fair. It was opened by Mayor Warner.

Division No. 1, Frankfort, Ky., gave a smoker last week, which was greatly enjoyed by their gentlemen friends.

The members of Division 6 were pleased to have with them at their last meeting Messrs. Joseph Taylor and Jerry Hallahan.

Division 1 will meet Tuesday evening and will probably attend in a body the ball to be given by Company A at Phoenix Hill.

The members of the County Board are considering several propositions for the celebration of the silver jubilee of the order.

It is rumored that Brother Andrew Meagher, of Division 4, will shortly lead to the altar one of New Albany's prettiest young ladies.

Members of the order are anticipating a pleasant time at the euchar and dance of the Ladies' Auxiliary on the evening of November 30.

Brother Patrick C. Burke, of Division 4, is a great animal fancier. He can tell the whinney of a horse or the bark of a dog a square away.

It is reported that John Barry, one of Limerick's younger set, will shortly accompany a young West St. Catherine-street girl to leave a happy home.

Attend the ball of the Hibernian Knights at Phoenix Hill Tuesday night and hear the result of the Corbett-Sharkey contest read by rounds.

Mr. Dan Welch, of Division 4, has recently established himself in business at Eighth and Oak streets and will be glad to see his friends at any time.

Mat Shaughnessy, Martin Grogan and Willie Reardon, well-known rounders of Limerick, will shortly leave for a two-weeks' hunting trip near Salt river.

Mr. Patrick M. Kane and Mr. Tim I. King, two jolly members of Division 4, are often seen in the neighborhood of First and Oak, especially on Sunday nights.

The Hibernian Knights drilled last night. They adjusted their uniforms and underwent inspection, preparatory to taking part in the parade to receive the Louisville Legion.

Richard Naughton, of Division 4, is one of the best story tellers in the order. His great delight is getting a crowd of youngsters together and telling them about his boyhood days in the old sod.

Reports relative to the celebration of St. Patrick's day are anxiously awaited by the members of the different divisions. The six Vice Presidents compose the committee having the matter in charge.

Con O'Leary claims that his entry in the prize contest will lead the favorite represented by Joe Lynch and Tom Kelly. It is a pretty and interesting race. Both entries have a host of warm friends.

Young Men's Division, No. 6, will resume its monthly dances on December 6 at the Hibernian Hall. The committee, consisting of E. P. Holley, M. J. McTighe and J. P. Casey, is perfecting all arrangements for the enjoyment of the usual large number of guests. As on all former occasions, admission will be by complimentary invitation.

Young Men's Division, No. 6, held a well-attended meeting on Tuesday night. Business of much importance was transacted. M. J. A. McCloud was initiated in the order. The new President, W. J. McCarthy, makes an excellent presiding officer.

George J. Butler, the Portland avenue grocer, was the recipient of a warm welcome at the meeting of Division 3 Wednesday evening. He is on the programme for an address at the next meeting.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Council, No. 230, Young Men's Institute, will entertain the members with a donkey party Tuesday evening, November 29. All members are cordially invited, and a good time is expected.

Mr. P. Holley, of Division 3, is one of its most earnest members. His remarks for the good of the order were listened to with the closest attention, and if his suggestions are carried out, they will result in great good.

Division 3 had a very good meeting Wednesday evening. President Taylor and Mr. P. Holley are anxious to bring this division to the front, and with the assistance of the members they may be able to be in the race with Divisions 1 and 4.

About 400 persons attended the celebration of the third anniversary of Division 32 in Clan-na-Gael Hall, South Boston, recently. Among the guests present were the Presidents of Suffolk county and the divisions from Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and Cambridgeport. President Daly is one of the four members of the division who were with the Ninth Massachusetts Volunteers during the war with Spain. On his return from Cuba he spent some time in one of the Boston hospitals.

At a union meeting of the A. O. H., held in Portland, Me., Sunday evening, November 6, Hon. P. J. Finn, of Philadelphia, delivered a lecture. Mr. Finn is one of the most eloquent speakers before the public today. His subject treated upon Irish loyalty, and he gave many forcible reasons why the United States should not favor the proposed Anglo-American alliance. The lecture was held under the auspices of the three divisions, and it was largely attended. Mr. Finn's denunciation of the Anglo-American alliance was received with great enthusiasm.

The St. Louis Hibernian gives an interesting account of the last meeting of Division 2 of that city, at which there was a large initiation and fourteen new applications. There was a large attendance of members, and after the business of the meeting was over the doors were thrown open to about two hundred guests. President Morrison welcomed them with a few well-chosen words, and introduced the County President, P. R. Fitzgibbon, who delivered an able address on the benefits of the order. A pleasing programme was carried out, interspersed with excellent musical selections by the Hibernian Band.

SPORTY ITEMS.

Brutus Clay, the black pet of the Bluegrass sports, was knocked out by Nat Wilson, of Mt. Sterling, last Monday. The bout was fast from the call of time until the third round, when Wilson connected with his opponent's jaw and put him out. Clay fought here with Steve Crosby.

The contest between Tommy West, the conqueror of Joe Walcott, and "Mysterious" Billy Smith ended in a draw. Smith did not show up in his old-time form against his black opponent, who fought cool and steady throughout the whole contest. Toward the close of the mill it looked as if Smith would be knocked out, but he was able to go the whole limit, and by an agreement between the principals, if both men were on their feet at the close of the contest, it should be declared a draw.

As the McCoy-Maher fight has been officially declared off McCoy has been matched for another meeting with his old-time rival, Tommy Ryan, of Syracuse, to take place before the Lenox Club sometime in December. The fight is to be at 158 pounds and of twenty-five rounds, for the middle-weight championship of the world and a purse of $12,000. This match will probably prevent the meeting between Tommy Ryan and Jimmy Ryan, whom Andy Mulligan had matched for a contest to be pulled off the latter part of this month. This will be a great disappointment to the followers of the manly art in Louisville, as they have been looking forward to this contest ever since it was announced.

Jack Bonner, who is to meet Jack Root here on November 22, arrived in the city the early part of the week. He was accompanied by Bob Dillon, who will act as his sparring partner, and who will be in his corner at the coming bout. Bonner came here from Jim Corbett's training quarters, where he was acting as Corbett's sparring partner. He expects to enter the ring at about 160 pounds, and in order to do this he will have to work hard, as he appears to weigh in the neighborhood of 180 pounds. He is very confident of defeating Root, but expects a hard fight, as he knows Jack is a hard nut to crack. Root is also training hard, and expects to enter the ring in the best condition of his life. He says that this will be the best bout ever pulled off at Music Hall. Messrs. Cook and West have an additional feature for this contest in the telegraphic description by rounds of the fight between Corbett and Sharkey. A large crowd should go to see this contest, as the management deserve some praise for their efforts to furnish such fine sport.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

The centennial celebration held at Topeka, Kas., in honor of the memory of Ireland's heroes, under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was largely attended by people of all nationalities. The principal address was "The Heroes of '98," by Very Rev. Dean Hayden, who is a thorough Irishman and a brother of Mr. John Hayden, M. P., of Roscommon, and of the late Luke Hayden, M. P. Father Hayden handled his subject in a vigorous and patriotic style that made his audience feel the better Irishmen and women. A feature of the celebration was the rendition by Irish-American children of the "Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Save Ireland," the audience joining in the chorus. Resolutions were adopted opposing alliance with foreign nations, and the meeting closed with high praise for the Ancient Order.

JOKELETS.

"Can she talk, old man?"
"Can she? Why, last summer in the mountains she didn't even let the echo have the last word."—Puck.

Dewey—Say, Hobson, why is the editor of the Kentucky Irish American like a shoeblack?
Hobson—Why just because he polishes the understandings of his patrons.

It was P. T. Barnum who said: "If you have only $10 capital to begin your business, and want to make money, be sure and spend $5 in advertising in the newspapers."

Chappie—Say, Willie, why is a young lady like a locomotive?
Willie—Why, Chappie, its because she sends off sparks, transports the mails and has a train following her.

Mabel—How is it that Edith, who used to be so pale, now has such rosy cheeks?
Dolly—Her new beau has a very tough beard.—Philadelphia North American.

Caller—Mrs. DeStyle is not in, you say?
Why, I saw her through the window as I came up the steps.

Servant (blandly)—Shure, mum, that was only her shadow you saw.—New York Truth.

"If I were so unlucky as to have a stupid son," said an officer, "I would certainly make him a parson. A clergyman, who was in the company, calmly said: "You think differently from your father, then."

"My motto," said the new boarder, "is to pay as you go."

The landlady shook her head.
"It wouldn't do in my business," she said. "A man might hang around a month and then forget his motto. My motto is pay Saturday night or go."—N. Y. Journal.

OFFICER FRANK DIGNAN.

Frank Dignan, one of the most efficient and popular members of the Louisville police department, who has been seriously ill for the past six weeks, is reported to be gradually improving, and his fellow officers and many friends hope to see him able to soon resume his beat.

IN DESPAIR.

The wife of a New York journalist said to a young unmarried friend:

"Fannie, take my advice and never marry a newspaper man."

"But your husband is a newspaper man, and you seem to get along very well."

"But we don't. Every evening he brings home a big bundle of newspapers from all over the country, and it nearly drives me crazy."

"How so?"

"I read the bargain counter advertisements in Chicago, Boston and other places a thousand miles off, where I can't get to them."
